Introduction

Preparation: Make the adjustments that will help you win the race. Go with 140 liters of gas. That will lighten the car some. For better control when making the turns, raise the wings a bit. Not too much, though—you're a good driver who can handle even difficult curves. You'll be using the high grip tires anyway, so there's no need to worry about slipping. Time to go out on the track for the start of your first Formula-1 race at Hockenheim.

Racing: The pedal's floored. There go the green lights. As the engine screams at over 6,000 rpm, you begin to pass a few of the slower cars. It's a great day for a race, but you don't really have time to enjoy the weather. You're focused on the road ahead, and the eight laps which stand between you and the championship.

Winning: You're on the final lap, seconds away from the finish line. But you've got company, and he's been there all day, trading off first place with you. You hit the infamous hairpin turn with him on your right. Letting off the accelerator just briefly, you push the pedal to the floor when coming out of the turn. Perfect execution. He's not so lucky, and falls behind. The checkered flag waves as you cross the finish line. Victory is yours!

Select SATURN to select the internal RAM, or CARTRIDGE to select the Backup. The data appears on-screen automatically when you access the Record Time option.

Transmission Type

Select either an automatic or manual transmission. Press the D-Button UP or DOWN and press the Confirm Button to select.

If you press Button B, you return to the Car Customization screen with the default setting.

F. Wing (Front Wing)

Position your Front Wing through this option. There are 5 settings available. If you select a setting of 5, when you turn corners your car slips only slightly. However, car acceleration is slowed and highest speed attainable is lowered. If a setting of 1 is chosen, acceleration is faster and top speed is higher, but your car is susceptible to slipping when making turns.

R. Wing (Rear Wing)

This feature is similar to F. Wing. Make the setting as you would for F. Wing.

Tires

Select the tire type: either TYPE A LONG LIFE or TYPE B HIGH GRIP. When you select the Type B tire, you have better control when making turns than the Type A, but they wear out faster.

Fuel

Select the amount of fuel you have at the beginning of the race. Select from 10 - 200 liters (in increments of 10). The more gasoline you have, the less often you need to stop in the pit for a refill. However, the less gasoline you have, the faster your car accelerates. When finished making your changes, highlight START and press the Confirm Button. Get ready to tear up the road!

Game Features

Driving

When the green lights are lit, the race begins. Get off to a quick start by holding down Button B while the red lights are still lit. Refer to the button functions on pages 4 and 5 for driving your car. These are the default functions. You can change the button functions if desired (see Key Config., page 7).

View Change

There are two views in this game: cockpit and raised rear. Experiment with both to find the one that works best for you. Press Button X or Z to toggle between views.

Cockpit View

Raised Rear View

Rear Mirror

You can catch the action happening behind you with the Rear Mirror. Press Button Y to display/remove the window. For Arcade Mode only.

Curves

You'll need to learn how to handle curves if you're going to keep your car in good condition and make a good time. Otherwise, you'll collide with the wall and need to visit the pit to keep your car going.

According to the course, curves are highlighted with different colors. Some are highlighted by orange and white guard rails, and the most difficult are highlighted by yellow and black warning signs. Watch for these in the distance and prepare for the turn, otherwise you'll wind up eating rail.

There are several ways you can slow down for a curve:

- Release the button you press to accelerate the car
- Tap the button used for braking
- Downshift (manual transmission only)

Experiment to find which works best for you. When coming out of the curve, hold down the button used for acceleration for best results.

The Pit

If you collide too much with walls and/or other cars, you'll need to change your damaged tires or you'll start sliding all over the road. The same will happen if you have been racing with TYPE B HIGH GRIP tires for more than a few laps. Time to head for the pit. You should also head for the pit when your fuel is running low. The pit is located on the right side of the track near the start/finish line, either before it or after it (depending on the course).

In the pit, your crew changes the tires and adds fuel to your gas tank. Press the D-Button LEFT or RIGHT to select the tire type. Next, press the D-Button DOWN to access the fuel indicator. Hold the D-Button LEFT or RIGHT until the desired amount of fuel is indicated by the highlighted needle. You cannot remove fuel already in your car. You have 10 seconds to make your choices. Press the Confirm Button once you have made your selections. The highlighted selections are automatically chosen if the counter reaches zero.

Early Retirement

If you want to quit a race, press Start. The Pause window appears. Highlight RETIRE to quit the game, or CANCEL to resume the game. Press the Confirm Button to make your selection. When you quit a race the game returns to the Select Course screen.

Course Descriptions

Neo City Novice

This is a good course to run when first learning to play. The straightaway is long and the course has very few turns. The greatest challenge of the course is the hairpin turn in the middle of the course.

Neo City Advanced

Several consecutive sharp curves are the highlight of this course. The middle of the course consists of a hairpin turn followed by two sharp turns, the most difficult part of your run.

Neo City Expert

The second half of the Expert course is the same as the Advanced course, but the similarity ends there. A series of hairpin turns and tight curves in the first half guarantees that your driving skills are tested to their limit.

Hockenheim

The course at Hockenheim has several difficult curves. A hairpin turn at the end of the course is the most challenging part. This part of the course is misleading and you'll wind up on the wall if you aren't careful. Take our word for it.

Suzuka

Suzuka is a twisting and winding course. It has everything: a series of sharp turns, a mean hairpin, and a long straightaway towards the end of the track. Make sure you stop in the pit as your tires take a lot of wear and tear.

Monte Carlo

Race through picturesque Monte Carlo. The course is a mix of tight corners and long, uninterrupted stretches. Be aware that cars sometimes "bunch up" around the tight turns, making traffic heavy.

Game Tips from the Pit

- Use the Time Attack mode for practice. You will have no rivals, and plenty of time to perfect your driving.
- Watch computer-controlled cars, especially as they go around curves. They usually run on the best parts of the course.
- Collisions are your greatest enemy. If you continually collide with a certain part of the course, you are guaranteed to lose time and damage your car. Access the Time Attack mode and perfect your run!
- Don't worry about slowing down and losing time at the turns—your rivals do it, and unless you want to eat guard rail, take the corners cautiously.
